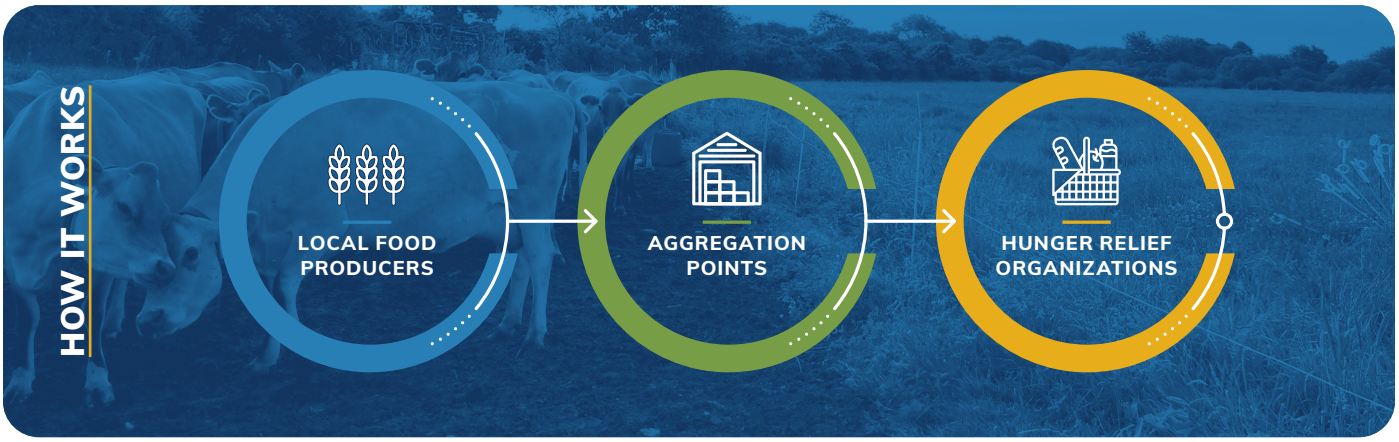
Growing wholesale channels for Rhode Island's farmers and fishers.

Providing fresh local food to our neighbors in need.

RHODY FEEDING RHODY

The RHODY FEEDING RHODY ALLIANCE includes Rhode Island farmers, fishers, food pantries, food rescue organizations, distributors, and others who want to provide fresh, local, culturally-appropriate foods to our food-insecure neighbors at a fair price to our producers and harvesters.

Together, we are connecting our local food system, growing a reliable wholesale market, and becoming more resilient to supply chain shocks.



IN 2023, ALLIANCE MEMBERS

- Made 881 individual purchases from 93 Rhode Island farmers and fishers
- Fed over 35,000 food-insecure Rhode Islanders through partnerships with more than 30 hunger relief organizations
- Channeled over $480,000 into the state economy

Did you know?

Rhode Island produces less than 10% of the food we eat. Programs like this one help increase that amount equitably, which is a win-win for everyone!

Funding for Rhody Feeding Rhody was made possible by a grant/cooperative agreement from the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Agricultural Marketing Service. Its contents are solely the responsibility of the authors and do not necessarily represent the official views of the USDA.
